HON. GEORGE S. WILSON

Addresses Democrats of Ohio County.

To The Democrats of Ohio County:

Upon the eve of the primary, at which you will select your nominee for Circuit Judge, I want to take this opportunity to address you.

I have had the pleasure of meeting a large number of Democrats throughout the District, including Ohio County, but I found it impossible to meet all of them. Consequently I address you through your county paper.

My public career and private life have been and are now open to investigation. As to my qualifications for the high office of Circuit Judge, I believe you will be satisfied by a perusal of the statement of my former associates at the bar of Union County, which appears elsewhere in these columns, and to which I invite your attention. I hope the judgment of those gentlemen, as well as that of my present professional colleagues, will satisfy the voters.

I have always been a Democrat and have never scratched the ticket. I have never failed to support with my best efforts every candidate nominated by my party and will support every nominee in the present primary wholeheartedly and will use my best efforts in the final election to bring success to our party.

In the beginning of this campaign my opponent challenged me for a joint debate. While I had a great desire to meet him I felt it would jeopardize the success of our ticket in November and I waived aside my desires in the interest of my party.

I am able to say to my friends in Ohio County that the reports received from up-standing men in the other counties indicate strongly that I will carry every county in the District. Good news comes to me from every section of Ohio County and it looks as if the good county of Ohio will give me a majority of at least four to one, but I earnestly request my friends to be alert for the few remaining hours of the campaign and to make the majority as large as possible, which will help us win in November.

Thanking each for every kind word spoken for me I remain

Respectfully yours,

GEORGE S. WILSON.

ADDRESSES VOTERS

Owensboro, Ky., August 1st, 1921.

To the Democratic Voters of the Sixth Judicial District:

As a candidate for the Democratic nomination for the important office of Circuit Judge, I am asking for your support and influence. I realize that, owing to the great number of Democratic voters in the four counties of the district, it will be impossible for me to see many of them and that my friends can render me a very great service by speaking to their friends in my behalf.

I have always endeavored to stand for that which was for the interest of the people, and, if elected, it shall be my constant aim and purpose to see that every person who has business in the Circuit Courts of this district gets fair treatment and a square deal in accordance with the laws of our state.

I am not the candidate of any little coterie of designing lawyers, who hope to control the high office of Circuit Judge to promote their own selfish ends, and, if elected, no lawyer or set of lawyers will be judge by proxy during my term of office.

I was born and reared in this district and fortunately am known to most of you, and I do not have to give you any references as to my standing as a citizen or as to my qualifications for the office to which I aspire. You also know of my services to our party. Its success now is important, and in my opinion it would be unwise for the Democrats of this district to nominate a candidate for Circuit Judge to head our ticket this year, who is the operator or manager of a non-union coal mine.

The reports from every section of the district indicate that the sentiment of the people is overwhelmingly for me, but I realize that the mails are being flooded by the opposition and that money is being freely used against me, and that false and extravagant claims of strength are being made to hood-wink and deceive the people, and I earnestly ask my friends to be diligent to offset these efforts.

Thanking you for the interest which you have shown in my candidacy, I remain,

Yours very truly,

L. P. TANNER.

COUNTY AGENT

MCCRACKEN LEAVES

Asst. Agent McInteer Succeeds Him

M. L. McCracken, County Agent, has resigned his position and accepted a position with the L. & N. R. R. Company, in the Immigration and Industrial Department. He will assume his new duties August the fifth.

Mr. McCracken has served Ohio County as County Agent or Farm Demonstrator during the past two and one-half years, and his service has been conscientious and faithful, resulting in much good to the agricultural interests of our County.

His resignation and the departure of himself and his family are regretted by the host of friends they have made in Hartford and Ohio County. His leaving is a real loss to the farming interests of this section.

Mr. B. B. McInteer, who has served as Assistant Farm Agent for this county for some time, has been appointed to fill the vacancy made by Mr. McCracken's resignation and will take charge of the office today. We are indeed glad that Mr. McInteer has been put at the head of the agricultural demonstration work in the county and predict for him a most successful administration.

Mr. Lewis Cook, of Jingo, was in town Tuesday.

REVIVAL AT SHINKLE CHAPEL IN PROGRESS

A revival meeting is in progress at Shinkle Chapel M. E. Church, near Bada. The meeting is being conducted by Rev. H. W. Landreth, the Pastor, assisted by Rev. Boyd Browning, pastor of Bethel M. E. Church, near Bowling Green. Two services are being held each day, at 3 and 8 p. m.

FIRE DESTROYS BARN

At about 1 a. m. Thursday, fire of unknown origin destroyed the stock barn of Mr. Frank Foreman, near Narrows. Among contents burned were three head of mules, a considerable amount of hay, grain, farming implements and harness. The total loss is estimated at $1000.00. Mr. Foreman carried only a small amount of insurance.

INFANT DIES

Ore the 9 weeks old infant of Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Ross, of Centertown, died at about 12 m. Sunday after a brief illness of intestinal trouble.

The body was laid to rest, in the cemetery at Centertown, at 11 a. m., Monday after funeral services conducted from the family residence by Rev. L. W. Tichenor. The bereaved ones have our deepest sympathy.

DUDLEY'S DOPE

Beaver Dam Wins The Rubber. Hartford with a supposedly reinforced edifice-up was defeated by the fast-going Beavers Sunday afternoon at Riverside Park in a game played in a steady mist of rain. Stevens on the mound for the visitors twirled one of the best games ever witnessed on the local diamond; with the hop on his fast ball and his slow curve working to perfection, he had the Riversiders eating out of his hand. Aulbach pitching for Hartford handed out a brand of ball that will cop most games, but alas! the locals didn't have the necessary punch to push the runs across the patten. "Eddie" Duke, the high-powered first-sacker, and John Taylor, the elongated guardian of second, starred in the field for Hartford, while Romans was the shining light for the Beavers.

Innings 1 2 3 4 5 6 7 8 9 R H E
Hartford 0 0 0 0 1 0 0 0 1 2 4
Batteries: Beaver Dam—Stevens and Leach; Hartford—Aulbach, Patrick and Phelps.

Diamond Dust

Tinsley's steal of second in the fourth frame, with "Fisty" Bates sleeping, brought a great cheer from the fans.
The threatening weather kept the attendance down greatly. It was demonstrated Sunday that the semi-pro league teams of the city play no better brand of ball than the teams of this locality.

On the Dawson trip two games were lost for the want of pep and confidence.

The locals journey to Masonville Saturday and will cross bats Sunday at Riverside Park with the fast Mogg team.

Other Games

Saturday: At Beaver Dam—Beaver Dam, 4; Island 5.
At Hartford—Rockport, (col.) 4; Central City, (col.), 9.
Sunday: At Rosine—Rosine 14; Broadway 4.

FLAMES CONSUME BARN

Fire of unknown origin destroyed a barn and contents belonging to Mr. C. R. Ashby, of near Centertown, at about 10 o'clock, Friday night. The entire loss is estimated at about $1200.00, with $200.00 insurance. Among other contents destroyed were 10 tons of hay, 100 bushels of corn, 60 bushels of wheat one road wagon, two buggies and one hog.

ATTEMPTS SUICIDE

Mr. Joe Stewart, of Horse Branch attempted to commit suicide by hanging, last Sunday evening. However, he was found before life became extinct and resuscitated. Late reports are that he will probably survive.

FARM EXTRACTS

INFORMATION FROM THE EXPERIMENT STATION — AGRICULTURAL PAPERS AND THE COUNTY AGENT'S OFFICE

Club Enrollment Has Big Increase In Year

There are approximately 20,290 Kentucky farm boys and girls between the ages of 10 and 19 years engaged in conducting one of the 33 junior agricultural club projects at the present time, according to C. W. Buckler, state leader of junior agricultural club work from the College of Agriculture. This total which is contained in a summary of the work shows a 400 per cent increase in club enrollment since the close of 1900 when 4,000 youngsters were members of county junior clubs.

Of the total number enrolled 3,581 are engaged in conducting crops projects, 9,870 livestock projects and 6,025 girls' projects. Projects in crops include those for corn, potatoes, soybeans, alfalfa, sweet clover, small fruits, garden crops, tomatoes and tobacco. Livestock projects include for poultry, swine, sheep, dairy cattle and beef cattle. Projects for girls include such things as canning, sewing and the making of foods.

State Fair To Be Record One For Farm Youngsters

The 1921 Kentucky State Fair which will be held September 12 to 17 will be one of the most eventful in the history of Kentucky farm boys and girls if plans being made materialize, according to C. W. Buckler, state leader of club work from the College of Agriculture who was recently reappointed superintendent of the State Fair club department. Five features will contribute toward the success of the event. These are a junior agricultural club booth, an exhibit of livestock, foods and clothing by the boys and girls, a girl's demonstration team contest, a junior livestock judging contest and the selection of state champions in a number of club projects. With the exception of the club booth which will be designed to emphasize the attractiveness of farm life for boys and girls the various features will offer opportunity for not only individual competition but also county team competition. Approximately $1,200 as prize money has been offered for successful livestock exhibitors alone and $300 posted as team and individual prize money in the livestock judging contest. Girls' demonstration teams will compete for $150 in cash prizes. These are a few of the prizes which are included in the premium list which has been prepared for the junior farmers.

Sixteen Counties Plan Fall Sales of Pullets

More than 8,000 pullets from four varieties of poultry will be sold in 16 county pullet sales planned for this fall as a part of the poultry standardization campaign being conducted by the College of Agriculture, according to an announcement by J. H. Martin, in charge of the College poultry work. The schedule of sales together with the number of birds which will be sold at each one are as follows:

White Plymouth Rocks—Fulton county, October 29, 600; McCracken county, November 16, 1,500; Calloway county, October 22, 500; Warren county, October 29, 800 and Barren county, September 30, 500. Rhode Island Reds—Marion county, November 5, 200; Boyd county, November 5, 200; Mason county November 26, 200 and Powell county, October 22, 100. White Wyandottes—Henderson county, October 22, 1,900 Hopkins county, October 22, 200; Todd county, November 19, 300. Barred Plymouth Rocks—Washington county, November 5, 350; Owen county, October 29, 200 and Taylor county, November 12, 250.

Christian county which is standardizing its poultry with Barred Plymouth Rocks, Rhode Island Reds and Wyandottes will hold its sale November 19 at which time pullets from all three breeds will be sold. Two hundred Barred Plymouth Rocks, 200 Rhode Island Reds, and 200 White Wyandottes will be sold at the sale.

Farmers in the different counties The Hartford Herald $1.50 the year.

will return one pullet for each setting of hatching eggs which they received in the spring. The money from the sales will be used to pay for the eggs.

Judging Contest

At least thirty counties will be represented in the Boys' and Girls' Livestock Judging Contest to be held at the State Fair, for which the prizes totaling $300 have been offered by the Louisville Live Stock Exchange. More counties are likely to enter within the next few weeks according to M. L. Hall, asst. state club leader, information to the effect having been sent by Mr. Hall to W. S. Bell, president of the Exchange, yesterday.

Interest in the contest has been steadily increasing, according to Mr. Hall, who has been following the elimination contest now underway in many of the counties for the selection of the contestants for the State Fair event. Great importance is attached to this even at the State Fair as it is to be an annual event fostered by the Louisville Livestock Exchange and the winner of the State Fair contest will represent the state in the Junior Judging contests to be held at the International Livestock Exhibition each year.

The boys and girls competing so far have shown unusual alertness and excellence in their preliminary contests. Many of the boys and girls have been at the summer camps where they have been studying the fine points of judging. Newspapers throughout the state have been devoting considerable space to the preparations for the State Fair event because of the educational value to the future farmers of this form of competition.

Exhibits

Regulations for the shipment of exhibits in the Kentucky State Fair, September 12th-17th, for the entry of exhibits and rules governing awards were announced today by W. C. Hanna, Commissioner of Agriculture and by virtue of his office, Chairman of the Kentucky State Fair.

The fair grounds will be open for the reception of stock and articles for exhibition, Thursday, September 8th, and they should be shipped to the exhibitor or his agent billed to the Kentucky State Fair Grounds, Louisville, Ky.

All animals entered for exhibition, must be placed in the several departments prior to 9 o'clock the morning of September 12th and if not so placed, the owners will forfeit all right to exhibit or compete for prizes unless relieved from such forfeiture by the member in charge of the department.

On the entry of each animal or article a card will be furnished the exhibitor specifying the department, the number of class and the number of entry, which card must remain attached to the animal or article during the exhibition.

Stalls and pens will be assigned by the superintendent of stables upon presentation of certificate from the secretary that fees for same have been paid.

Awards of prizes will be made by the single judge system but right is reserved by the member in charge of the department to vary from this rule when in his opinion it is deemed advisable and for the best interests of his department.

Premiums in the live stock departments will be paid on the grounds the day after the award is made. Premiums in the other departments will be mailed as soon as possible after the fair. In issuing these regulations, Mr. Hanna is answering the questions of thousands of persons who are pouring letters into his office asking information regarding the exhibits. From the inquiries it appears that nearly double as many exhibits will be at the Fair this year as last year which broke all records, Mr. Hanna says.

WOMAN NAMED TO LEAD DEMOCRATS

New Albany Mother Is Victor,
Almost by 2 to 1 Vote for Mayorality Race

New Albany, Ind., July 27.—For the first time in their histories, one of the Falls Cities will have a woman candidate for Mayor.

Democratic voters of New Albany yesterday granted their suffrage to Mrs. Lillie M. Kurfess, widow, mother of two grown sons and a daughter, in preference to two men competitors. Mrs. Kurfess led her nearest opponent, Claude A. Sittason, with nearly twice the number of votes cast for him.

Her Republican opponent for the chief executive office of New Albany will be Robert M. Morris, incumbent, who defeated Thomas E. Fogle by 1,242 votes. The primary was held yesterday instead of May 3 because of the fact that the vote to consider the city manager plan in April had caused a postponement. The primaries failed to rouse the usual enthusiasm, and only sixty per cent of the voters cast ballots.

Lead Is Nearly 2 to 1
Mrs. Kurfess' score was 1,588 votes. Mr. Sittason polled 862, and Earl E. Creamer, the third candidate, eighty-five. The closest contests on the respective tickets developed in the races of the four councilmen-at-large.

Mrs. Kurfess' election is due, it is said, to her quiet and thorough canvass among the Democratic electorate. When she announced her candidacy in March, she said that she did so because she "wanted to be Mayor of New Albany and not because of the novelty of the thing."

The results of the primary yesterday bore out her statement at that time that she had a thorough organization and that she would make a vigorous campaign.

Lived Here All Her Life
Mrs. Kurfess, chairman of the Floyd County Women's Democratic Committee, was placed in the race by the Democratic Women Voters' League. She has lived in New Albany all her life.

Her husband was the late J. Fred Kurfess, locomotive engineer. Her two sons, J. Fred Kurfess, Jr., and Leland Kurfess, served during the World War, the former as a Lieutenant, senior grade, in the Navy, and the latter as a Second Lieutenant in the Army.

MONTICELLO, HOME OF
JEFFERSON, FOR SALE

New York, July 28.—Reports that Monticello, the home of Thomas Jefferson, near Charlottesville, Va., is on the market were confirmed today by Jefferson M. Levy, former Congressman and present owner.

Mr. Levy said upkeep costs had become too burdensome and that he would sell Monticello provided he could find a purchaser "deemed able and worthy to become the owner of such a shrine."

He said he had made efforts to have the Government buy the estate as a summer home for Presidents and that he would be willing to sell Monticello to the Government for $500,000. He values the estate at $1,000,000.

WHY OLD BACKS ACRE

Many Hartford Old People Have Found Backache to be a Sign of Kidney Weakness

What a pity that so many people past middle age are worried with lame backs, aching kidneys, poor eyesight, sick headaches, dizziness, gravel, dropsy or distressing urinary ills. Kidney weakness brings these discomforts in age or youth, and is a dangerous thing to neglect for it leads to Bright's disease and uric acid poisoning. Doan's Kidney Pills have brought new strength to many Hartford old people. Ask your neighbor. You will make no mistake by following the example of L. P. Turner, retired farmer, Clay St., Hartford. He says: "I am glad to recommend Doan's Kidney Pills, because they relieved me when my kidneys and back gave me trouble. I consider Doan's Kidney Pills a reliable kidney medicine and deserving of great praise." (Statement given November 15, 1916.)

On January 25, 1921, Mr. Turner said: "I have had no reason to change my mind about the reliability of Doan's Kidney Pills. They have practically cured me for I haven't taken them for a long time."

Price 60c. at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—get Doan's Kidney Pills—the same that Mr. Turner had. Foster-Milburn Co., Mfrs., Buffalo, N. Y.

ALL-YEAR-ROUND

POLITICAL PARTIES

Too frequently a political party is only a campaign organization, functioning feverishly while offices are being won, then falling into a patronage-gorged slumber while offices are being administered. The biggest problem of our politics today is the discovery of ways and means of making our political parties function intelligently between campaigns as well as during campaigns.

I can best get at what I have in mind by the simple reporting of what is to me one of the most significant bits of political news that has come to my ears for many months. The Democratic party has employed Mr. Robert Goldsmith to act for twelve months of the year as Director of Political Research for the party. That is to say, the Democratic party (National Committee) is to have a studious gentleman, unhampered by the whims of a constituency, who, in addition to the gathering of "campaign material," may act as a sort of intellectual servant at large to Democratic senators, representatives and party chiefs, unearthing for them authentic information on the problems before the Government, helping to put a basis of fact under all legislative discussing, helping to forestall snap judgments and to hamstring mere prejudice and passion in debate.

This appointment of a research director for a political party suggests the next great step in American politics. If the Democratic leaders will only see its full significance and develop it! Now Mr. Goldsmith is a catholic-minded gentleman, with an almost uncanny sensitivity to sources of information, but he should be surrounded by a staff of research associates and given adequate funds for the organization of the work on a comprehensive scale. Then the Republican party should follow suit by the organization of a research committee under a capable director.

It would require a Senate and House of supermen to deal intelligently with all the problems that confront our legislators, if each legislator were expected to unearth and master for himself and by himself the countless facts involved. Yet that is what we are asking of our senators and representatives. We elect to the Senate or the House a man from some small inland town, a man of nominal educational qualifications, a man who has neither read nor traveled widely, and straightway ask him to pass judgment for us upon the tangled and technical problems of our industrialism, and to aid in drafting for us a scheme of relations with the rest of the world which he has never seen and of which he, perhaps, knows next to nothing. This is not a flippant fling at our representatives. Of almost any American in their place the same might be said. A constantly changing body of elected representatives cannot be expected to have universal knowledge at their finger-tips. We must put back of the changing body of representatives a constant body of researchers. The researchers will provide the facts and the representatives will act upon them.

We often wonder why it is that England comes out of almost every conflict, military or diplomatic, with flying colors. The reason does not lie primarily with her premiers and cabinet members, but with the constant body of men who give their lives to the service of the Government. Secretaries of State for foreign affairs may come and go in England, but the Foreign Office goes on forever. Many of the brightest and best men from England's universities are attracted to permanent government service. These men become experts in given fields. When crisis impend in British politics, the statesman can always touch the buzzer and call to his side the scholar who supplies the facts in the case. This constant body of informed men is so vital a factor in British politics that it is almost true to say that the elected members of the Government are the "showmen" of British politics, while the sustained statesmanship is supplied by the men in the background.

Maybe we shall some day overhaul our civil service and achieve something of a like result, but in the meantime our most hopeful opportunity lies in the development of research committees within our political parties. In doing this we should be only tearing a leaf from the record of the British Labor Party. Its research committee makes fundamental studies of any and every question that confronts the Government. Its assembled information is at the disposal of its servants in the Government, and is available when the party desires to make a statement to the country. With such a committee in each party, we might in time get away from the studied inanities of our conventional party platforms and achieve statements that would capture the imagination of the country and serve as blue prints of progress.

The party that first develops a comprehensive research department will gain an untold advantage over the party that retains the ancient hit-or-miss "election" to facts. Its representatives in the Senate and the House will, when the system is really in working order, hold a decided advantage over the representatives of the opposition. With both parties supported by such committees of research, the "Congressional Record" might become a document of compelling interest to the public. It may be suggested that the research committees of political parties could not be relied upon for unbiased information, that they would bend facts to the exigencies of party politics. If, however, both parties had such committees, each party would know that the opposition, with the same facts at hand, would be on the alert for misinterpretation. The system would, in fact, enforce a refreshing sincerity in political discussion.

Under the research director of each party there should be numerous subdirectors in charge of special fields of investigation. The members of these committees should be "above the battle" of politics. They should be members of a sort of party civil service. The rewards of the work should be sufficient to attract able men to it as a life work. Then, maybe, we could evolve a sustained national policy, avoiding the serious losses of our present system of four and eight year swings of the partisan pendulum.

Dr. Robert Goldsmith, Director of the Bureau of Political Research at

He is the author of "A League to Enforce Peace" and is a recognized authority of international topics. He was formerly an associate editor on Collier's and an editorial writer on the New York World.

The data of the Bureau of Political Research is available to all members of the Democratic party.

JUDGE QUIN TO REMAIN ON BENCH

Judge Huston Quin, Republican nominee for Mayor, is not going to resign his place on the Court of Appeals bench while he is prosecuting his candidacy for the mayoralty this fall. In a statement issued by Judge Quin just before his departure for Virginia Beach, Va., where he will spend three weeks' vacation. He makes clear his position in the matter. The statement follows:

"Interested opposition to my candidacy for Mayor of Louisville is pressing me to say whether, before the November election, I intend to resign as a Judge of the Court of Appeals, which office I now hold.

"I do not contemplate such action. My course is in accord with what I think proper and is consistent with the general practice of candidates under similar circumstances, and which hitherto has passed without criticism by the people and presumably has public approval. Many conspicuous instances of that character now come to my mind, and will be recalled by any one acquainted with political history.

"I shall not permit my candidacy for Mayor of Louisville to interfere with the performance of any part of my duties as Judge of the Court of Appeals, while I remain a member thereof.

"I accepted the nomination of the Republican Party for Mayor of the City of Louisville, in response to what was urged upon me as a call of duty. The same people, in the main, who elected me Judge of the Court of Appeals are to say whether I shall continue in that place or become Mayor of Louisville, in which office if it becomes my duty, I shall devote every power of my heart, mind and energy."

HUNG ON TO THE PLOW

An old English gentleman, a school teacher, who some years ago resided in one of the small towns of Ohio, was an agreeable teller of stories, but deemed it beyond his reputation as a raconteur to tell one that did not surpass any that had preceded.

A farmer having come to the village remarked in the presence of his friends that he had been plowing all the week with four horses, breaking up new ground, and dwelt upon it as being a very great thing.

"Pshaw!" said the old Englishman, "that's nothing. I have seen in England fifty yoke of oxen hitched to one plow."

The remark seemed to occasion general surprise.

"And," continued he, "the funniest part of the whole thing was that while the plow was on the top of the hill the leading yoke of oxen was on top of another hill, and the forty-nine between the plow and the leaders were suspended between the two hills.

"And there was another matter connected with it rather strange. In the course of the day the plowman, becoming rather careless about driving his team, ran into and split a big oak stump. The plow passed safely through the split, but before the plowman got entirely through, it closed up and caught him by the coat-tail."

"Did it tear his coat?" asked a person of inquiring turn.

"Not a bit of it," replied our veracious narrator; "he hung on to the plow handles and pulled out the stump."—Buffalo Times.

BOB HENRY'S BUSINESS EYE

Miss Jennie Jones and Bob Henry were married at the Jones mansion last night. The bride is the daughter of our constable, Jones, who made a good officer, and will undoubtedly be re-elected in the spring. He offers a fine horse for sale in another column. The groom runs a grocery store on Main Street, and is a good patron of our advertising columns, and has a good line of bargains this week. All summer he paid two cents more for butter than any other store in town. The happy couple left on the ten o'clock train for Milwaukee to visit the bride's uncle, who is reported to have lots of money and Bright's disease. Bob certainly has an eye for business.—Janesville (Wis.) Era.

KENTUCKY GIRLS CHOOSE COLLEGE IN THE OZARKS

Junior College For Girls at Eureka Springs, Arkansas, Attracts National Attention

In the heart of the Ozarks, that section of the United States made famous in story and song, particularly by the novels of Harold Bell Wright, is situated a Boarding Junior College for girls and young women, where students from all over the United States assemble for higher education in Literary and Fine Arts. The institution's name is CRESCENT COLLEGE, located at Eureka Springs, Ark., commonly known as the "Switzerland of America."

A native son of Kentucky, Richard R. Thompson, born at Mayfield in 1878, an M. A. graduate from the University of Michigan, is the head of this select and limited school. Only eighty girls are accepted each year and they are carefully chosen from several times that number of candidates for admission. There is always a long waiting list at the opening each September. President Thompson announces that Crescent will increase the enrollment limit to ninety this year and preference will be given to Kentucky girls.

It is accredited by all State Universities, and unexcelled Conservatory advantages are offered. The College emphasizes wholesome recreations and maintains a beautiful Lake and Club House for the students.

For Catalog, View Book and particulars, address CRESCENT COLLEGE, Box 191, Eureka Springs, Ark.

MONEY SAVED, SAYS MORROW

Frankfort, Ky., July 26.—The State budget system, during the fiscal year ending June 30, reduced the floating debt of Kentucky by $714,071.28, according to announcement of Governor Morrow Monday.

The debt June 30, 1920, at the close of the Administration's first year, was $3,735,447.99. June 30, this year, it was $3,041,376.71. The Governor said that in addition to the outstanding warrants of $2,339,591.33, when the Administration came in, there were outstanding unaudited claims of $1,503,300.61 which had accrued and for which warrants had to be issued during the first half year of his term, and that had it not been for these, the net indebtedness of the Commonwealth would have been but $1,518,076.10 June 30.

The total saving to the State the first year of the budget system, he said, actually was $2,153,540.21 because, in addition to a surplus receipts over expenditures of $854,071.28 for the year, but took care of $1,299,468.93, by which expenditures had exceeded receipts for the fiscal year, 1919-1920.

AN EDITOR'S WAIL

Here is an old one, but its annual re-appearance never fails to strike a responsive chord in the heart of every country journalist:

It is reported that one of Harvey's fastidious newly married ladies kneads bread with her gloves on. The incident may be somewhat peculiar, but there are others. The editor of this paper needs bread with his shoes on; he needs bread with his shirt on; he needs bread with his pants on; and unless some of the delinquent subscribers of this old rag of freedom pay up before long he will need bread without a d— thing on—and North Dakota is no Garden of Eden in the winter time.—Fessenden (N. D.) Advertiser.

WEEKLY NEWS ARTICLE

Washington, July 30.—Following their established methods of procedure during this administration of putting the cart before the horse, the Republicans are now in the act of debating and passing a tariff bill when the entire business interests of the country are clamoring for a revision of the tax laws.

The bill is well-named the Fordney Bill for "Uncle Joe" Fordney is the Grand Panjandrum of the tariff. To him the tariff is a panacea; it cures corns, warts, bunions and chilblains; prevents falling out of the hair, strengthens the kidneys, cleanses the liver, and is good for what ails you whether anything is the matter with you or not.

It is fashioned on the old lines of the Payne-Aldrich bill, only more so. It is being passed under a gag rule, which prevents amendments except on a few schedules, the House delegating its legislative function to the Ways and Means Committee. The "joker" in the bill is the "American valuation" clause, by which the value of the article is fixed at the port of entry and not at the port of shipment. This will make the tariff rates much higher than they appear to be under the schedules of the bill. For instance, as the Philadelphia Record points out:

If a foreign article is valued at $1 and the same article here is valued at $2 and the duty, say, is 100 per cent, the value of the foreign article thus becomes $4, duty paid. The American manufacturer could raise his price to $3 or even $2.50 and undersell his foreign competitor and the Treasury would get no revenue whatever.

Representative Garner (Dem. Tex.) who made the principal speech against the bill, declared that under American valuation the present Underwood bill would yield more revenue than the Fordney bill.

Using the duty on straw hats, which under the Payne-Aldrich bill was 50 per cent and 61 2-5 per cent under the Fordney bill as computed by him, as a basis of comparison, he said that the same scale ran through the entire 346 pages of the bill.

That the bill will continue, if not increase, the high cost of living is more or less obvious from even a cursory glance at the schedules, in addition to which it is predicted that it will disarrange the entire economics of the country.

The agreement by which the bill was voted on July 21 meant only that it would pass the House on that date by almost a strict party vote, but it may well be doubted if the bill becomes a law before the regular session of Congress this winter, first because a prolonged debate is certain in the Senate with a radical revision of the bill as passed by the House, and, secondly, because it is probable that the Senate will take up the tax revision bill as soon as it comes from the House and sidetrack the tariff bill.

Chairman White Shows Up Republican Sabotage

The probability that the Senate will sidetrack the tariff bill and take up the tax-revision bill when the two measures reach that body was strengthened when President Harding in his speech urging delay of the soldiers' bonus bill, cited as the first of the three things essential at this time the revision of our internal taxation. The great bulk of our taxes, of course, comes from internal taxation and the readjustment of this taxation is essential to the proper conduct of business all over the country; yet Congress is floundering over a tariff bill, estimated at the highest to yield $500,000,000 when the expenditures to be met run between five and six billions.

Business men are clamoring for tax revision, and business conditions have become so bad that Chairman George White of the Democratic National Committee, himself a business man, felt impelled to issue a statement based on President Harding's address to the Senate, pointing out that that two years and two months ago, President Wilson upon his return from the Peace Conference in May, 1919, urged Congress to revise the internal tax laws and relieve business and the people generally of the onerous and burdensome war taxes.

Chairman White pointed out that the Republican party was in power the last two years of the Wilson administration in both branches of Congress, and although appealed to by a Democratic President to revise the tax laws oppressive to business and the public generally, that party never offered any constructive legislation on revenue revision or anything else. "The Democratic party," said Chairman White, "is on record two years and two months in favor of such revision."

The Tariff, Past, Present and Future in the making of a tariff bill the Republicans of the House seem to ignore the fact that a world war has upset and transformed many conditions, especially economic conditions. Sometimes, it would seem that they forget there has been a world war. But Herbert Hoover, who perhaps ranks highest among Republican economists, has not forgotten, and his newspaper, the Washington Herald, has recently called attention to these changed conditions with particular reference to the tariff question. In its issue of Feb. 9, 1921, the Herald editorially pointed out the difficulties, if not impossibilities, of equitable tariff adjustment, which apparently has been unheeded by the junker tariff makers and their beneficiaries, the highly protected campaign contributors. It said under the above caption:

It is one thing to be the world's greatest debtor nation and quite another to be the world's greatest creditor nation. It is another disturbing factor to have a comparative equality among the money of all nations change so that this is the only one of the great trading nations, whose money values have not greatly depreciated as compared to that of its commercial competitors. It is a vexing element to have these relative values as variable as is the number of competing nations.

"So a tariff that would adequately protect American industry as to Great Britain might be wholly inadequate as to France, Germany or Italy. Another variance of this problem is found as to Japan, as to the new Europe and all the neutrals. It would take not a fixed inflexible tariff law, but financial legerdemain, to adjust these differences, equitably and readjust them with constant exchange fluctuations.

"Yet this is but a start in the labyrinth of tariff adjustments, if there is to be a tariff revision. Not only does Europe owe this government $10,000,000,000 on which it cannot even pay the interest, but European governments and traders owe American traders and our people in commercial debts and on securities, over $3,000,000,000 more.

"It is recognized by everyone that the bulk of this combined credit, far greater than was ever carried by any other one nation, must be paid in goods and materials. It can be paid in no other way, and that means imports. A high tariff would tend to prevent, through our own act, the payment of those debts due us.

"There is a growing feeling which may become conviction, that not only any increase of exports from the United States will depend upon an increase of imports, but that even to maintain an equality of exports will demand this greater proportion of imports. On this event the present credit relations depend; while only through greatly expanded imports can credit capacity and credit stability be expanded.

"But even more than this come the feeling that America's own domestic purchasing power is quite dependent upon Europe's ability to buy and pay. Even in foods, the products of the farm, Europe has an eager market for all American surplus, if it can make on this exchange. But it cannot pay.

"If this surplus can go where it is wanted and needed, the farmers will have the money to spend. If it has to stay as now on the farms and in elevators, the farmers will be in their present financial stress and have to take reduced price on all their crops. What is true—if true—of the farmers is equally true of all products of the mills and factories.

"It is comprehending this wholly new American situation, that is giving a lot of high protectionists pause. It has ranged the financial powers of the country back of a policy of 'leave it alone.' It is winning converts among just the folks."

Democrats First For Disarmament

No one will deny to President Harding any credit which may be due him for his proposal to call a conference of the principal allied and associated powers on the reduction of armaments. If by the inclusion of China as one of the conferring powers a peaceable solution is found for the Far Eastern question there will be additional cause for congratulation.

This movement by President Harding follows the passage of the Borah Resolution put through the Senate and the House by the pressure of public opinion, and until the last moment opposed by the Republicans and the administration.

The credit for initiating the movement for reduction of world armaments, a movement which antedated the Versailles Peace Conference, belongs to the Democrats.

The first disarmament resolution was introduced in the House in 1916 appended to the Naval Appropriation Bill by Representative Hensley (Dem.) of Missouri, and was in part as follows:

"Oh Boy! Ain't this the life!!"

I LIKE my job.
BUT DAYS do come.
WHEN SKIES are blue,
ABOVE THE city smoke,
AND BREEZES stir.
THE PAPERS on my desk.
AND THEN I think.
WHAT I would do.
IF I were boss.
I'D OPEN shop.
AT TWELVE o'clock.
AND CLOSE at one.
WITH ONE hour off.
FOR LUNCH, and I.
WOULD GET old Sam.
TO RUN me out.
IN HIS big six.
AND DROP me off.
UNDER A greenwood tree.
BESIDE A babbling brook.
AND THERE I'd lie.

AND EVERY once
IN A while,
ROLL OVER.
OR MAYBE sit and think.
BUT MOST likely.
JUST SIT.
AND EVERY once
IN A while I'd light
ONE OF my Chesterfields.
AND OH BOY,
I GUESS that wouldn't SATISFY!

COMPANIONSHIP? Say, there never was such a cigarette as Chesterfield for steady company! Just as mild and smooth as tobacco can be—but with a mellow "body" that satisfies even cigar smokers. On lazy days or busy ones—all the time—you want this "satisfy-smoke."

Have you seen the new AIR-TIGHT tins of 50?

"Upon the conclusion of the war in Europe, or as soon thereafter as it may be done, the President of the United States is authorized to invite all great Governments of the world to send representatives to a conference, which shall be charged with the duty of suggesting an organization, court of arbitration, or other body, to which disputed questions between nations shall be referred for adjudication and peaceful settlement, and to consider the question of disarmament and submit their recommendations to their respective Governments for approval."

The practical plan for the reduction of armaments was incorporated in the covenant of the League of Nations, rejected by the Republican Senate. This was followed by the Borah resolution and the Borah Resolution in turn by the Harding proposal, enlarging the scope of the conference. Whether or not the inclusion of other questions in the proposed disarmament conference will result in muddling the disarmament plan or whether it will make disarmament even more practical by clarifying the situation in the Far East remains to be seen.

Any feasible movement by this administration looking to a reduction of world armament and the consequent reduction in taxation which would logically, if not actually, follow will meet with no obstruction from the Democratic party which has consistently favored a reduction of armament since 1916.

Democrats with a proper sense of humor will not even object to the characterization by the Republican press of President Harding's "leadership" in this matter.

A Gem from the Congressional Record

Senator Fletcher (Dem., Fla.) was making an argument against the Senate recess. He said: "Let us stay here until we get through," then added:

"That suggests a story I read once about an Englishman who, walking along the street in Boston, observed, in front of a restaurant, a carte de jour which had on it, 'Beefsteak, 50 cents.' He was a little hungry, so he walked in and took his seat at a table. Soon a girl with a black skirt and a white shirtwaist and a white apron appeared to take his order, he said, 'I want some beefsteak.' The girl replied being from Boston, 'The beefsteak is all over.' He, being an Englishman, responded 'All over what?' She, in true Boston style, answered, 'All over with.'

"I say, let us stay here and do the things we should do until we get it 'all over with.'"

KENTUCKY FARMERS REAP RICH HARVEST.

Revenue from Breeding Thoroughbred Horses Only Profit to Be Depended Upon.

Sale of Blooded Colts Produces Money When Other Products Bring Loss.

The Kentucky farmer has lost money on his wheat and corn; he is forced to ship his cattle and hogs to a losing and constantly falling market; and his losses on his tobacco have nearly driven him into bankruptcy. The calamities of a troubled world are placed upon his back, already bent double by its burdens.

Under these untoward conditions, the one fortunate exception among farmers is the stock raiser who owns one or more thoroughbred mares. He always finds a nation-wide demand for his thoroughbred foals. The weanling at its mother's side frequently brings him $500 to $1,000, while the yearling will sell for from $1,500 to $10,000; a colt from a Jefferson county farm having brought, at one of the recent Saratoga sales $25,000.

Year in and year out, the Kentucky thoroughbred finds a ready market; buyers from all over the world coming to this State to secure material to improve the horses of their respective countries or localities. Owner Riddle refused $500,000 for Man-O-War, a horse bred by Mr. August Belmont in Old Kentucky. A wonder horse is Man-O-War. A smasher of all records and victor over all opponents that made some of the most brilliant of turf history, he has been returned to his native hearth, there to perpetuate his great qualities. Last month, Man-O-War's full brother, Playfellow, by name, was sold for $115,000; and not long ago, John E. Madden refused $125,000 for a half interest in the Kentucky-bred stallion, Friar Rock, now in the stud at Hamburg Place, near Lexington.

Numerous other thoroughbred stallions and mares of nearly, if not quite, priceless value are owned in the State. Wheat, corn and tobacco are often crop failures, and cattle and hogs are frequently raised at a loss. But the thoroughbred has a great permanent value, for nowhere else in this country is he brought to such perfection as in Kentucky, and his fame and the demand for him are world-wide.
